Corn lower; June 37@37%c; July 37%c bid; Au gust 39c bid. CHICAGO, ILL., May 12 .- Trading was very dull in the wheat pit early this morning, and prices for June hung around the opening at 6%c. The crowd oatside the clique endeav ored to break it below that figure, but there was so much nervousness displayed when the clique houses began buying that nothing was accomplished. Prices ranged between 86@86% c and 86% c all morning, but the volume of trade was light on the afternoon board, the crowd were feeling very bear ish and the clique had all they could do to keep prices above 85c. Toward the close June sold at 86% c, at which figure it closed. There was a continuation of yesterday's closing weakness in corn. June opened %c lower at 39%c. The market continued weak throughout the day and it was evident that the crowd had loaded up too heavy during the dull moments yesterday morning and there was consequently a disposition to sell. June corn closed at 39%c. Provisions weaker. Pork, lard and ribs were all lower. In the former article there were apparently no sales, but the figures were juggled 4958 $1 50 per barrel lower for May and 5,170,686 June. Large receipts and lower prices of hogs
